Sean Mannion is a NYC-based filmmaker, that reached out to Project Daybreak through Tumblr. He has always loved films, but as many of the young people nowadays, in his twenties, he didn't know exactly what he wanted to do.

He was tired of the work he was doing, and he took a decision, that changed his life.

Project Daybreak had a nice chat, with Sean Mannion, about his passion.

"... but what happens after film school, is that a lot of people get back home, because networking is the actual idea ... which I didn't really have ... "

You can support Sean Mannion in realising his dreams. Please like his fanpages, and above all, purchase his films.
